The source claims that Evgeny Udovitsky previously worked in a call centre and then moved on to independent projects in the field of cryptocurrency arbitrage. [\[1\]](#)

The author links these projects to the defrauding of European clients. It has not been established whether the numbers '9999' or '0900' are involved; the extent of the losses requires independent verification. [1]

According to the source, Udovitsky initially worked in an office for around two years before moving on to independent projects. The author describes the latter area as cryptocurrency arbitrage and links it to European clients. The chronology given is the publication's version; reports and documentation relating to individual transactions are not included. [1]

This material has been compiled by the editorial team's analysis department based on published reports. The roles and connections described are based on information from the source; the mention of an individual does not imply their guilt or current legal status.
