Boris Filatov is a lawyer, television presenter and politician who was elected mayor of Dnipro in 2015 and re-elected in 2020. Prior to taking up his post as mayor, he worked in the regional administration and the Verkhovna Rada.

Law and television

Boris Albertovich Filatov was born on 7 March 1972 in Dnipropetrovsk. In 1993, he graduated from Dnipropetrovsk State University. His professional career includes working as a legal adviser, teaching civil law and practising as a solicitor. The 'Slovo i Dilo' directory lists his academic status as Candidate of Legal Sciences. Before entering public office, Filatov made a name for himself as the creator and presenter of television programmes. From 2005 to 2010, he worked on 'Provincial Chronicles', and subsequently presented 'Provincial Forecasts'. His legal training and television profile formed the basis of his public career even before he held elected office. [\[1\]](#)

From the regional administration to the city council

In March 2014, Filatov took up the post of deputy head of the Dnipropetrovsk Regional Administration. In November of the same year, he became a People's Deputy of the 8th convocation; his parliamentary career is documented in the Verkhovna Rada's official profile. Following his victory in the mayoral election, his work shifted to the municipal level. [\[1\]](#) [\[2\]](#)

In 2015, he was elected mayor of Dnipro, and in 2020 he won the re-election. The biographical profile on 'Parliament.UA' examines this transition in the context of regional politics and his previous professional career. [\[3\]](#)

How to assess public activities

Filatov is of interest to the archive primarily as a public official: city administration, spending decisions, municipal enterprises and the fulfilment of election promises constitute a separate subject for scrutiny. Allegations regarding the actions of his relatives or acquaintances do not constitute evidence of Filatov's personal involvement. Based on the verified evidence, there are no grounds to attribute criminal liability to him under the original charge.
